ReStore Mission:

Building sustainable community by

Helping local people access low-cost materials to improve their homes

Provide skills and employability training for people of all ages and backgrounds

Divert tons of reusable material from landfill

Why ReStore?

Habitat ReStore directly tackles poverty in Ireland; delivering impact against the SDG's and ensuring Irish households with limited resources can access vital materials to improve their homes.

Volunteer engagement:

Since opening the first ReStore in Europe in 2012, more than 850 local people have volunteered in Habitat ReStores across Ireland.

From students and retirees to supported placements, ReStore attracts a wide range of individuals of all ages, backgrounds and abilities; improving well-being and building community sustainable community

Partnerships with support agencies including Probation Board, Action Mental Health and others highlight the value for their clients

Corporate Partnerships

Habitat ReStore provides a platform for companies and organisations, to be more socially and environmentally responsible and can help achieve recycling targets.

Materials donated are not further processed, but reused, which helps build a more sustainable future.

Partnering with Habitat allow businesses to connect with a unique local and global charity brand which provides hands-on impact.

Schools & Youth

At Habitat for Humanity, we passionately believe in the power of young people to shape our future.

Our creative and interactive programmes engage children and young people in our mission; providing an opportunity to serve and grow into active citizens who can make a real difference in our own community and around the world.

We provide virtual and in-person workshops and resources for all age groups.

Our 'Global Education Toolkit' provides educators with a range of FREE ONLINE subject specific curriculum-linked resources, which provide knowledge, practical educational tools and activities.
